EEC Vote Set in Fall For Britain

Decision on Entry Up to Commons

By Anthony Lewis LONDON, June 17 (NYT)—The House of Commons will make its great decision on whether to bring Britain into the European Common Market next fall.

The crucial vote will come after Parliament returns from its summer recess, probably toward the end of October.

Prime Minister Edward Heath announced the timetable today to a crowded House. It involves a long series of debates and legislative decisions looking toward British membership on Jan. 1, 1973.

Pro-market forces in the Labor party were also against a decision in Parliament this summer. It would have been preceded by an emergency party conference that they feared would arouse fervent anti-market sentiment in Labor ranks.

As it is, the vote will follow the regular conferences of the two parties next October. Mr. Heath will almost certainly be in full control of his Tories, but the Labor conference is likely to rival some American Democratic conventions in emotion.

The Labor party is utterly divided on Europe. Its leader, Harold Wilson, has lately sounded more and more negative. But there are those who think that, in the end, he will stick to the commitment he made as prime minister and vote for entry.

The polls now show about two-thirds of the public opposed to British membership in the Common Market. On the other hand, the same number think it is going to happen—perhaps indicating that people are open to persuasion.

A critical factor, politically, could be something beyond feelings about the market itself—the general popularity of Mr. Heath and his government.

It is one year tomorrow since Mr. Heath won his remarkable upset victory at the Conservative party from office. Much of the glow of those days has been lost in public resentment over economic trends.

DANIEL ELLSBERG—Reportedly the source of the "leak" on the Pentagon's study of Vietnam involvement by the U.S.

Daniel Ellsberg Named Pentagon Ex-Aide Is Called Source of Leak to N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, June 17 (NYT)—Sidney Zion, a former New York Times reporter, claimed yesterday that the newspaper obtained its copy of a secret Pentagon report on the Vietnam war from Daniel Ellsberg, who in 1965 was special assistant to John T. McNaughton, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs.

Officials of The Times had "no comment" on Mr. Zion's assertion. The Pentagon confirmed that Mr. Ellsberg had worked on the 47-volume study, which was supervised by Mr. McNaughton under instructions from Robert S. McNamara, who was then defense secretary. Mr. McNaughton died in a plane crash in 1967.

Mr. Ellsberg currently works at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for International Studies, where he specializes in Southeast Asia. Mr. Ellsberg was not available for comment on the claim. A UPI reporter who went to his Cambridge apartment said that a staff of newspapers and mail outside indicated that Mr. Ellsberg had not been there in several days.

In Office Briefly Kerry B. Wilson, an administrative officer at MIT, whose office is next to Mr. Ellsberg's said today that Mr. Ellsberg was in his office briefly yesterday afternoon. He said that his colleague had been working only part time since February at his own request.

However, Mr. Ellsberg's brother, Harold Ellsberg, a New York insurance executive, told Westchester-Rockland newspapers today that he last saw his brother six months ago. Declaring that the two of them had never talked of the Pentagon study, Mr. Harold Ellsberg said, "I probably wouldn't tell me anything because he wouldn't want me to be on the spot. If it was Dan, I hope other people are as sympathetic to what he has done as I am to Dan—or whoever has done this."

His brother at one time "strongly supported the U.S. war policy" in Vietnam, Harold said, but changed his mind after working as a civilian aide on the staff of Gen. Edward Lansdale in Vietnam.

N.Y. Times to List Documents

Court Delays Decision On Return of 'Secrets'

By Natalie Layzell NEW YORK, June 17 (NYT)—The New York Times voluntarily gave the federal government today a list of the top secret Pentagon documents used in its series on the Vietnam war.

Michael D. Hess, the chief of the civil division in the U.S. attorney's office in New York, acknowledged receipt but had no other comment on the matter. He gave no indication whether the government would be satisfied with the inventory without being able to inspect the documents themselves.

U.S. District Judge Murray I. Gurfein said that he did not expect to announce until tomorrow a decision on the government's motion for him to order The Times to deliver its copies of the documents to the court for examination.

Judge Gurfein had urged The Times to cooperate voluntarily on the list. Earlier today, he had shelved the government's motion to examine the newspaper's files on the data, saying, "I'm not tolerating any fishing expedition into the files of any newspaper."

Mr. Hess told Judge Gurfein, "We are not sure, but I think they are original documents." But affidavits presented by Mr. Abrams assured the court that The Times has Xerox copies that bear marginal handwritten notes that might disclose the Times' confidential source.

The government fired the new salvo in its battle with The Times last night when it asked that the newspaper's attorneys appear in court this morning to give reasons why it should not be ordered to produce the 7,000-page document. Attorney General John Mitchell has claimed that publication caused "irreparable injury to the national defense."

On Tuesday, after The Times had published three parts of its highly controversial series since Sunday, Judge Gurfein granted so far even raised the problem at State.

Disclosures Discomfit Allies But Few Complain Officially

WASHINGTON, June 17 (WP)—Publication of secret messages on American involvement in the war is causing embarrassment for several U.S. allies.

There is no mass rush to the State Department by indignant foreign diplomats, however, official sources acknowledged. Only a few envoys, up to yesterday, had made any inquiries at State or had registered their discomfiture.

Nixon Asks for Anti-Drug Funds To Act in 'National Emergency'

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP).—Labeling drug abuse a "national emergency," President Nixon today asked Congress for an extra $156 million to "tighten the noose around the necks of drug peddlers and thereby loosen the noose around the necks of drug users."

In a special message, Mr. Nixon called for new efforts to rehabilitate drug victims, while increasing moves to cut off the supply of illicit narcotics on an international scale.

Mr. Nixon described drug abuse as "public enemy No. 1," and said he considered the problem so urgent that the fight against it must be coordinated by one responsible authority reporting directly to the President.

He said use of drugs by U.S. servicemen in Vietnam is "especially disheartening." He announced the immediate establishment of a rehabilitation program for addicted servicemen being returned from the war zone.

And he asked Congress to give the Pentagon legislative authority to keep uniformed personnel in service beyond normal discharge dates if they are addicts.

Cost of Addiction
Citing statistics, Mr. Nixon estimated the cost of supporting a drug habit as ranging from $10,000 to more than $86,000 a year.

"The financial costs of addiction," he said, "are more than two billion dollars every year, but three costs can at least be measured."

Auto Crash Kills Drug Aide Son of Jackie Robinson

NORWALK, Conn., June 17 (AP).—Jackie Robinson Jr., son of the baseball great, died early today in a one-car accident, state police said.

The son of the first Negro to break baseball's color barrier was on his way home from work at a drug rehabilitation center when his small sports car slammed into a bridge abutment on Merritt Parkway.

Mr. Robinson, 24, was arrested in 1968 for possessing heroin. Kenneth Williams, executive director of the Daytop, Inc., a drug rehabilitation center in Seymour, Conn., said Mr. Robinson had been in New York City yesterday "doing public relations work for Daytop."

"He was working on our staff and was very much involved," said Mr. Williams. "He had been clean for three years, and he helped a lot of people."
The elder Robinson said his son began smoking marijuana in Vietnam.

ured. The human costs cannot. American society should not be required to bear either cost."

To coordinate federal activities in research and education in the area, Mr. Nixon announced creation by executive order of a special action office of drug abuse prevention within the White House structure. He asked Congress to follow up with legislation that would formally establish this office and broaden its powers.

The extra $156 million Mr. Nixon seeks for anti-drug efforts in the 1972 fiscal year that begins July 1 would bring total outlays to $371 million.

Girl Free on Bail After Month In Jail as Bomb Case Witness

SEATTLE, June 17 (WP).—Antiwar activist Leslie Bacon, 19, who has been in jail a month as a material witness in connection with the bombing of the U.S. Capitol, was released on bond yesterday.

She was arrested in a Washington commune April 23. After a quick hearing, federal magistrate Alan Froelich removed a bond condition from the $10,000 bail set on a charge of conspiracy to firebomb a bank in New York last year.

American Civil Liberties Union attorney Jan Peterson then gave the magistrate a $1,000 cashier's check for 10 percent of the bond.

U.S. Ponders A-Arms Move Off Okinawa

Storage Sites Said To Be Guam, Asia, U.S.

By William Beecher
WASHINGTON, June 17 (NYT).—The Defense and State Departments have proposed to the White House that hundreds of tactical nuclear weapons now stored on Okinawa be moved to existing storage sites on Guam and in South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines and the United States.

Well-placed officials say the joint recommendation calls for a quick decision because of the need to remove the weapons prior to April 1, 1972, when control of Okinawa and the other islands in the Ryukyu chain is expected to revert to Japan. A draft treaty covering this reversion was signed by the two governments today in simultaneous ceremonies in Tokyo and Washington.

Officials say the proposal to the White House urges that well over half the weapons be moved to Guam, the remainder to be distributed among the other locations.

The recommendation, they say, represents a compromise between those who wanted to transfer most of the Okinawa-based weapons to forward positions in Asia, and those who wanted to withdraw most to the United States.

The American government has never officially acknowledged that it maintains tactical nuclear weapons in the western Pacific area.

Officials say they have urged haste because of the time-consuming procedures necessary to pack and ship the weapons and to construct a limited number of new storage facilities, particularly on Guam.

Among the weapons involved, sources say, are nuclear bombs, artillery shells, tactical ground-to-ground rockets, atomic land mines, atomic depth charges, six-to-six missiles and surface-to-air missiles.

Annual Review
All decisions on the deployment of nuclear weapons outside the United States, under law, are reserved to the President. Each year he reviews global deployments, normally making minor shifts. This year, because of the Okinawa question, major decisions are called for.

At one point in the debate, officials say, some military planners had urged that a large portion of the weapons be shifted to forward locations in places like South Korea. They argued that with the reduction of American ground forces throughout Asia, the augmentation of tactical nuclear stocks would help to maintain deterrence against aggression by Communist China or North Korea.

Other officials, both in the Pentagon and the State Department, insisted that the stationing of additional nuclear weapons on the rim of Asia could create more problems than they solved. These officials argued that putting too many weapons too far forward might present the President one day with a choice of authorizing the use of the weapons or risking their being overrun.

"This is selective fascism," Miss Bacon told newsmen after her release. "Just because they decided to let me out doesn't mean there's any more justice than before. The very system that I was arrested under does not guarantee any rights at all."

Miss Bacon declined to repeat what she told a federal grand jury here. Asked if she knew anything about the Capitol bombing, she answered:
"Nothing but what I read in the papers."
"They had no idea how to solve the bombing of the U.S. Capitol," she said. "And they have had a difficult time getting information about the (radical protest) movement. So they're using the grand jury to get information about totally legal things."
"It's a simple way to get people to jail without trial," she said.

U.S. Woman Survives Fall of 2,800 Feet
IOWA CITY, June 17 (Reuters).—A 25-year-old woman survived a 2,800-foot fall to earth when her parachute failed to open properly.

"I sure am glad to be alive. I really thought I was going to die," Mrs. Sheryl Osburn said yesterday in a hospital where she was listed in good condition after the fall Tuesday.

She crushed a vertebra, but did not lose consciousness. Mrs. Osburn was making her fourth jump when her main parachute failed to open and her emergency chute became tangled to it. She managed to get one parachute partly open at 500 feet.

Court Bars Democrats' Plan For Convention Delegations
By Sanford J. Ungar
WASHINGTON, June 17 (WP).—A federal judge yesterday rejected the Democratic party's four-month-old compromise formula for apportionment of state delegates to its 1972 national convention, declaring that it is "discriminatory" and does "not meet the tests of a rational basis."

Ruling orally, immediately after hearing both sides in a suit brought by the Democratic party organizations of New York State, California and the District of Columbia, U.S. District Court Judge June L. Green agreed with the groups that delegates should be apportioned on a strict basis of party strength in each state.

The rejected delegate formula, announced by the Democratic party last February after two years of debate, apportioned about half the convention delegates on a state's strength in the electoral college and half on the state's Democratic votes in the last presidential election.

It was a compromise with the demands of the party organizations of the smaller states, which automatically stand to benefit from a formula based partially on the electoral college.

Attorney Joseph L. Rauh Jr., who represented the plaintiffs in the lawsuit, immediately predicted that the pure party-strength formula, dubbed "one Democrat-one vote," would mean "hundreds more" liberal delegates at the Democratic convention next year.

The Democratic National Committee, obviously stunned by Judge Green's prompt ruling after arguments yesterday afternoon, said it would appeal at once to the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

Already pending in the appellate court is another challenge to the convention-delegate formula of both major parties. The state of Georgia contends that delegate strength of each party should be determined solely on the basis of state population.

Russia Uses Vietnam Papers To Attack Nixon War Policies

By Bernard Gwertzman
MOSCOW, June 17 (NYT).—The Soviet Union today sought to turn the publication of the McNamara papers on the Vietnam war into a sharp attack on the Nixon administration's war policies.

Soviet press and television decried an extraordinary amount of attention to the reports and to the subsequent court fight between the New York Times, which first printed them, and the federal government.

The overriding theme was that the documents should not be viewed simply as historical, but as an indictment of the current government in Washington as well.

"These documents confirm what the world knew before—the enormous gap between the words and deeds of the American government," Gennadi Gerasimov, a Novosti press agency commentator, said on the main evening news television program.

Most of the commentaries written from here were done without the aid of the writers having seen the actual editions of The Times. One Soviet editor called The Times bureau here to ask to see the actual copies since none had been received by his institution, which does not receive The Times by airmail.

All Have Commentaries
Pravda and Izvestia printed excerpts supplied by Tass, the Soviet press agency, and all papers had commentaries dwelling on the political uproar in the United States.

"The uneasiness which has gripped official Washington in connection with the new expose shows how scared the United States government is of Americans learning the truth about its criminal aggression against the peoples of Southeast Asia," Pravda said.

Since Soviet authorities generally assert that there is no freedom of the press in the United States, the chasm between The Times and the government could cause some ideological problems here. But Soviet commentators already had the explanation. Genrikh Borovik, Novosti's New York correspondent, in an article in Komsomolskaya Pravda, said that the McNamara papers could be printed because of "contradictions within the ruling circles" of the United States.

14 Saigon Newspapers Reported Confiscated
SAIGON, June 17 (Reuters).—Fourteen of Saigon's 38 daily newspapers were confiscated today for allegedly violating government press codes, informed sources said.

The sources said this was the first time the government had acted against such a large number of newspapers. Under the press codes, the government has the right to confiscate newspapers which publish articles deemed harmful to national security.

ICBMs Not Accurate Enough Pentagon Study Downgrades First-Strike Ability of Russia

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UPI).—A new Pentagon-sponsored study estimates that multiple warheads flight-tested thus far with the giant Soviet SS-9 intercontinental missiles are not accurate enough to knock out U.S. Minuteman ICBMs in a surprise attack, according to informed government sources.

While some additional tests of the big missile are expected later this year, officials say they are uncertain whether these flights will reveal a new and more accurate version of the SS-9 or will merely be tests of existing missiles launched from new protective sites the Russians are now building.

Rogers Meets Dobrynin on Troop Cut Issue

By Tad Szulc

WASHINGTON, June 17 (NYT)—The United States and the Soviet Union began exploring yesterday the possibility of East-West negotiations on a mutual reduction of forces in Europe.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, on whose request the meeting was held, conferred for 40 minutes this afternoon with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to try to determine when, where and in what manner Moscow would be ready to open discussions on a mutual and balanced cut in troop levels by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact.

State Department officials disclosed no details of the conversation, but described it as "an exchange of views useful to both sides."

They said that Messrs. Rogers and Dobrynin agreed to continue these talks in the future, though no date was set for the next meeting. Officials said yesterday's discussion was "preliminary" and cautioned that NATO and the Warsaw Pact were "some distance" from opening actual negotiations.

A-Talks Bid Noted

During the meeting Mr. Rogers took note without any comment of a Soviet communication received earlier yesterday by the U.S. government in what appeared to be a revival of Moscow's earlier proposal for a nuclear disarmament conference involving the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Britain and France.

Mr. Rogers had announced on Tuesday his plans to meet with Mr. Dobrynin to explore Soviet views on a mutual reduction of forces in Europe, emphasizing that the United States stood ready to enter into negotiations. Officials here stressed, however, that Mr. Rogers was acting on behalf of both the United States and NATO, just as Mr. Dobrynin had been expected to speak both for Moscow and its Warsaw Pact allies.

Washington's policy is to coordinate all its moves on opening negotiations on the European forces reduction with the other members of the North Atlantic alliance.

Even before the Rogers-Dobrynin meeting, this subject was reviewed at length in conferences Tuesday between President Nixon and the visiting West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. NATO has also scheduled a meeting of its deputy foreign ministers for September to elaborate a joint position toward the Warsaw Pact powers.

Caution at SALT Urged
WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, urged yesterday a U.S. attitude of caution toward arms talks with the Soviet Union. He said continued development of missiles and bombers is necessary "to hedge against the possibility of a breakdown" in the negotiations.

Adm. Moorer was the opening witness in hearings by the Senate disarmament subcommittee on the relationship between the U.S. strategic posture and the strategic arms limitation talks.

He said: "The over-all strategic balance, during the last five or six years, has drastically shifted in favor of the Soviet Union. Our comfortable lead has now all but vanished, and within the next five or six years we could actually find ourselves in a position of over-all strategic inferiority certainly as far as numbers of offensive delivery vehicles and megatons, and air defense systems, are concerned."

THIS book cannot at the present time be published in our native land except in abbreviated (privately circulated typescript) because of censorship objections unintelligible to normal human reason and which, in addition, demand that the word God be unforgivably written without a capital letter. To this indignity I cannot stoop.

The directive to write God in small letters is the cheapest kind of atheistic pettiness. Both believers and unbelievers must agree that when the Regional Procurement Administration is written with capital letters or KGB or ZAGZ (the secret police or city registration bureau) are written in all caps then we might at least employ one capital letter to designate the highest creative force in the universe.

Not to add that on the lips and in the understandings of the people of 1914 the word "God" in small letters grates on the ears and is historically false.

The general design revealed in this first part (of the novel) came to me in 1936 when I was finishing high school. Up to the present time I have never deviated from it, viewing this as the chief artistic design of my life. I have been diverted to other books only by the peculiarities of my career and richness of contemporary impressions.

I have continued to prepare myself and gather material solely for this one purpose. And already it is almost too late. My own life and creative imagination are not sufficient for this 20-year work, and contemporary witnesses of these events have almost all died, those who could correct me, who would enrich my work and advise me on that which has not been written down and has not been preserved. In my own country all collections of material, open to others, are barred to me.

Russian writers, older than myself, either concentrate for the most part on our more recent history or slip over the rest superficially. And there is even less hope that it can be written by those younger than myself or that in the future it will be possible to re-create these years when even for my generation this is virtually impossible. So I must carry on.

The first segment of my work I am now publishing for Russian readers abroad with a simultaneous plea for criticism, corrections and supplements, especially with regard to historical personages on whom I have little material: on Generals A.D. Nezhvolodov, Martos, Krymov, Posmovsky, Filimonov, Artamonov, V.I. Gurko, Savitskiy; Colonels Kabanov, Pervushin, Kakhovskiy, Isayev, Khristich; Lt. Col. Sukhachevskiy, the Cossack Captain Vedernikov, and Staff Captain Stenochkin.

I would be grateful for any unpublished materials relating to subsequent years but strictly with respect to the following places: Petrograd, Moscow, Tambov, Rostov-on-Don, Novocherkassk, Kislovodsk-Pyatigorsk. All the remaining places not embraced in my design long ago have been put away in books and files.

I am hopeful that the publishers may take upon themselves the work of collecting for me any materials that are sent in.

Soviet Scientists Envisage 100-Man Factories in Space

MOSCOW, June 17 (UPI)—Soviet scientists today visualized future "space factories" of 100 workers with water carried up to them through laser beams from earth.

Scientific commentaries, written in connection with the mission of the three-man Salyut space station, discussed ambitious future plans for building stations that will produce perfectly round ball bearings and special metal-plastic alloys.

Lt. Col. Georgy Dobrovolski, Ladislav Volkov and Viktor Patyev have spent 11 days in orbit so far, most of the time aboard the first manned orbital space station, Salyut.

The commentaries today said their mission is the precursor of huge flying factory-laboratories, where crews will spend as long as a year carrying out manufacturing processes that can only be done in the weightless vacuum of space.

One of the commentaries, written by Fyodor Antonov, in the newspaper Socialist Industry, said the problem of supplying water to the orbital stations may be solved by laser beams.

Principal Way

"The transportation of water vapor inside a luminous laser beam will possibly become one of the principal ways to provide the crews of long-duration orbital stations with water," Mr. Antonov said.

The engineer did not elaborate on how such a system might work.

A cosmonaut, Yevgeny Khrunov, in the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda, said that "in the not so distant future" there will be orbital stations with as many as 12 crewmen on board at one time.

"Space factories is a dream that does not seem so unreal," he said.

"If you put several such stations in orbit and dock them, you will have a base of 50 to 100 persons, with moorings for transport ships."

Mr. Khrunov said factories in space will be able to produce items that are difficult or impossible to fashion on earth.

U.S., Russian Space Experts To Negotiate

SPACE CENTER, Houston, June 17 (AP)—Soviet and U.S. space officials will begin negotiations here Monday toward establishing docking systems which would permit spacecraft from the two nations to link up in orbit, the Manned Spacecraft Center said today.

The announcement said scientists and engineers from the Soviet Union will meet with American experts in three working groups at the Manned Spacecraft Center in an effort to develop compatible spacecraft docking systems.

Officials said Working Group I will assure compatibility in rendezvous and docking; Working Group II will develop compatible radio guidance and optical systems and Working Group III will develop docking assemblies.

The meetings are expected to last five days.

U.S.A.

$6.75 round trip from France.

It's an easy trip to make. Whether you're in Europe for business or pleasure, family or friends in America are closer than you think.

And the cost is low—by telephone. For example, as little as $6.75 plus tax for a three-minute station-to-station call from France. A three-minute station-to-station call from England is as little as $4.05 plus tax. From Italy, as little as $5.10 plus tax.

Calling the U.S.A. is the next best thing to being there—and it's the cheapest way to get there.

Eurodollar Regulation Needed, Volcker Says

By Edwin L. Dale Jr.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP-DJ)—Paul A. Volcker conceded today that the recent monetary flare-up in Europe, with its vast flows of short-term capital, had "led to new questions about the international monetary system," but he said he firmly opposed any basic changes in the system.

Mr. Volcker, Under Secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs, told a Joint Economic Committee panel that the short-term capital flows "raise fundamental and difficult issues," but added: "The general lines of our approach should be clear. We don't want to destroy the system of integrated capital markets, generally free convertibility of currencies, wide freedom of trade and payments, and reasonably stable exchange rates. Our aim must be to correct the shortcomings of the present system without losing the benefits."

He firmly rejected the proposal by the committee chairman, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D. Wis., that the Treasury cease to convert foreign officially-held dollars into gold and allow the dollars to "float" in foreign exchange markets for a while. He said this was "no way out at all" and could lead to "more protectionism" in the world.

Mr. Volcker cited several possible "approaches" for dealing with the problem of capital flows, which he said is made "more acute" by the existence of the large Eurodollar market—dollars on deposit in banks abroad.

Mr. Volcker said that the "mix" of their domestic monetary and fiscal policies, with the aim of "keying monetary policies to international interest rate structures." But this "has not been a fully adequate solution" for domestic political and economic reasons, including the great difficulties in imposing a restrictive government tax and spending policy.

Another possibility is "direct controls in attempts to control short-term capital." He said some controls are in use but that an "extensive exchange control system" would be needed to "achieve satisfactory control over short-term flows." He concluded that "we in the United States would certainly not want to see a movement to widespread controls either here or abroad."

Output in U.K. Up 2% in April

LONDON, June 17 (AP-DJ)—Britain's industrial production rose 2.2 percent in April from the previous month, the Central Statistical Office reported today.

The seasonally-adjusted index stood at 138.4, up from 137.7 in March and 134.8 in April a year earlier (1963 equals 100).

The three months ended April were down 0.9 percent from the preceding three months. The largest fall in the period was in metal manufacturing—down 5.5 percent—and engineering—off 2.7 percent.

Meanwhile, new orders and output are sluggish and investment prospects are poor, a survey by the Confederation of British Industry (CBI) showed today.

The survey, taken in the five weeks ended June 5, indicated substantial cost increases which are not being reflected in domestic or export prices and are putting pressure on profit margins.

The CBI survey showed a low level of activity in manufacturing industry and less business optimism than in the preceding October survey.

The number of companies expecting a year-to-year decline in the level of capital spending in the next 12 months is the second largest ever shown by the period-to-period surveys, the CBI said. It added that it expects capital spending to decline further in 1972.

U.S. Recovery Seen Too Slow To Aid Jobless

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP-DJ)—The U.S. economy is moving too slowly to cut into the high rate of unemployment, a prime goal of the administration, Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said today.

The President's chief economic adviser said Mr. Nixon will decide in July or August whether to stay with present policy or propose new economic stimulants such as a tax cut.

Mr. McCracken said he thought economic statistics for the second quarter will reflect a "substantial and pretty good expansion by historical standards."

"At the same time," he said, "we have to recognize that the expansion isn't yet moving fast enough to cut into the unemployment picture. And I think it is important for us to achieve the degree of economic expansion which will do it."

Mr. McCracken said, "I suspect that we haven't yet seen the full effect" of administration efforts to bolster the economy.

U.S. Consumer Survey

ANN ARBOR, Michigan, June 17 (AP-DJ)—The willingness of U.S. consumers to buy continued to increase moderately in May from earlier in the year, the University of Michigan's survey research center reported today.

But it described the improvement as "reduced pessimism, rather than increased optimism."

Disappearing War: An Analysis

By Carl Gewirtz

PARIS, June 17 (IHT)—With an implied pat on the back for "deliberately" maintaining "so high a level of unemployment," the United States drew fresh warnings today about the need to slow inflation and improve its balance of payments.

However, the 51-page annual review of the U.S. economy by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) does not suggest how this is to be done.

The report, in fact, says that the trade surplus—historically a big money-making plus for the United States—"seems likely to decline somewhat in 1971" from the $6.1 billion last year with exports growing 7 percent (compared with 15 percent last year) and imports continuing to grow at a high rate, perhaps not far from last year's 11 percent. (As recently as 1967, the nation recorded a trade surplus of $4 billion.)

It adds that long-term capital outflows of corporate funds for plant and equipment abroad "might be somewhat higher than last year." It notes that offsetting this to some degree if stock prices rise, "foreign direct investment (in U.S. securities) might also rise."

War Ignored
Nowhere in this review, or in this week's critical comments from foreign central bankers in the annual report of the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) or in the comments of finance officials during the recent monetary crisis, is there mention of the effects on the U.S. economy of the Vietnam war, which according to the most recent Pentagon estimate, is costing the United States $25 billion a year.

While much of that money is used to the benefit of the domestic U.S. economy—buying material and thereby financing employment—there have been no studies on how much of the money spent in Vietnam adds to the surfeit of dollars that foreign central bankers are so upset about.

Economic Analysis

U.S. Rescue of Lockheed Is Opposed

By Hobart Rowen

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—It is surprising to find a Republican administration like Mr. Nixon's supporting a $250 million bailout proposal for Lockheed Aircraft, in violation of all free enterprise, free market principles.

Mr. Nixon, it may be remembered, explained his unwillingness to establish even "voluntary" wage and price restraints—in the face of serious inflation—because of his devotion to the operation of free markets.

For anyone who really believes, in the sanctity of the so-called free enterprise system, there should be a clear perspective on what to do about the Lockheed mess. If "free enterprise" has any meaning, it is a risk system, involving loss as well as profit.

For the person wholly committed to the theory, this is the way that resources which are being inefficiently or ineptly used by one group in society can be transferred to others.

Rival Eyes Lockheed Bid In Event of Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP-DJ)—Willard F. Rockwell Jr., chairman of North American Rockwell Corp., said the company would consider taking over Lockheed Aircraft Corp. if the financially troubled aerospace firm went bankrupt, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Mr. Rockwell said his first step in such a move would be to end the Lockheed L1011 TriStar jet-liner program. The TriStar would have to "go down the drain" if North American acquired Lockheed, Mr. Rockwell was quoted as saying in an interview in Pittsburgh.

In Washington, Lockheed vice-president W.R. Wilson said that a proposal from North American in the event of bankruptcy "is no alternative to the legislation now before Congress."

Leases Depress Penny Properties

NEW YORK (NYT)—If you were offered a chance to invest in some of the world's most prestigious addresses—specifically the Park Avenue properties of the bankrupt Penn Central railroad—would you settle for a return of 8 percent?

There are Wall Streeters who think this would be an attractive prospect. And there may well be an attempt to persuade the railroad to sell most of its Park Avenue properties—including the hotels—for a sum in the neighborhood of only $300 million.

The next step would be to organize a real estate investment trust as a vehicle to get the public in the situation. Then some prestigious building management company would be asked to take over actual management and pay out the leasehold earnings to you and your name-dropping friends.

Similar Trust Offered
It would not be the first time a group of properties had been so organized for public participation.

IATA Calls For Limits on Charter Lines

Official Says Regular Lines Face Destruction
VIENNA, June 17 (NYT)—The International Air Transport Association (IATA) has urged world governments to limit the mushrooming activities of charter airlines, otherwise the present scheduled airline network "may be destroyed."

The appeal came yesterday from Knut Hammarskjold, IATA director general, at the general assembly of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) currently meeting here for its triennial conference.

"I am not seeking protection of the scheduled airline industry," Mr. Hammarskjold said, "but a comprehension that you cannot have a development of regular scheduled services and at the same time a development of a regular non-scheduled service on the best routes at peak seasons."

"If scheduled operations are to be maintained, non-scheduled operations must be limited," he said.

NYSE Chiefs Vote to Boost Commissions

By Terry Robards
NEW YORK, June 17 (NYT)—Sweeping changes in sales charges for stock transactions were endorsed yesterday by a high-level committee of the New York Stock Exchange and sent to the governing board for approval.

The board is scheduled to vote on the new rate package at its monthly policy meeting this afternoon and presumably will approve submitting the new rates to the Securities & Exchange Commission in time to meet a June 30 deadline.

The new sales charges in general entail substantial increases in the commissions that would be paid for average-sized trades and decreases in the commissions that would be paid for very large transactions.

Ex-Aide to Humphrey Cites Efforts to Stem War Policy

By David S. Broder

WASHINGTON, June 18 (WP). — A former member of Hubert H. Humphrey's vice-presidential staff yesterday offered the first detailed account of Mr. Humphrey's private efforts to moderate the Vietnam policies of the Lyndon B. Johnson administration...

International Development, and a beginning of reductions in military personnel. He also advocated a halt to "search-and-destroy" missions and other steps of military de-escalation.

Mr. Humphrey was given a summary of Mr. van Dyck's recollections before leaving for a Chicago speech last night but declined to comment on their substance, except to say, "I'm not trying to censor anybody."

Aides Back Report

While Mr. Humphrey declined to comment on the substance of Mr. van Dyck's account, three other former Humphrey aides—William B. Welch, John G. Stewart and John E. Reilly—said that it squared with their recollections of the events.

Private Record

Among the highlights in Mr. van Dyck's recital of Mr. Humphrey's private record on Vietnam policy—confirmed by three other former staff members—were statements that:

In a memorandum to President Johnson, written in the spring of 1964, before Sen. Humphrey was picked for Vice-President, the senator opposed American withdrawal from Vietnam...

While working for the Vice President, Mr. van Dyck wrote many of Mr. Humphrey's speeches, traveled with him and participated in numerous staff briefings and discussions.

"Basically," Mr. van Dyck said, "Humphrey never questioned until very late the proposition that there was instability in Southeast Asia and that our presence and role were important in securing the peace of the region."

In the first high-level Vietnam debates after joining the administration in January, 1965, Mr. Humphrey argued against full-scale bombing of North Vietnam and the dispatch of more American ground troops.

At the start of today's court hearing, Judge Gurfein said he thought that The Times should consult with the government as a matter of simple patriotism before publishing secret documents.

After Mr. Johnson in March, 1965, ordered into effect the policies that Mr. Humphrey had opposed, the Vice-President was "systematically excluded" and "just plain frozen out" of high-level Vietnam policy talks for almost a full year.

U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour told the judge that the Times' regulations "compromise our defense plans and they complicate our international relations."

Although he supported American assistance to the Vietnamese throughout this period, Mr. Humphrey was "almost physically nauseous" when en route to the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky in Saigon in October, 1967, an Army colonel described the widespread corruption of the government.

Mr. Seymour said that he was willing to concede that The Times acted in good faith, but added, nevertheless, "they decided on their own to declassify it."

On that same trip, Mr. Humphrey warned Mr. Thieu "in very firm language" that governmental reform and "de-Americanization" of the war "had to take place immediately because American public opinion would not sustain the effort in Vietnam much longer."

In its argument today on whether Judge Gurfein should continue the ban on publishing The Times series, the Justice Department said that the constitutional guarantee of a free press sometimes "must give way to compelling governmental need."

When he returned from this journey, Mr. Humphrey sent Mr. Johnson a private report urging "a sharp cutback in American civilian personnel in Vietnam, particularly in the Agency for

The freedom of the press was not "absolute," the department's brief said.

"This story is out and available to every news medium in the country, and this radically changes the posture of this case," said Alexander N. Bickel, a professor at the Yale Law School, who is representing The Times.

He noted that the government had taken the position that "grave injury" would be inflicted on national security if The Times had been allowed to continue its series.

Mr. Bickel remarked, referring to The Washington Post story, "another installment has been published, and the

Saigon Fears Plot Against Huge Parade

2 Arms Caches Found Near Capital

SAIGON, June 18 (UPI)—South Vietnamese police said today they had seized two Viet Cong arms caches in what the government said was a Communist plot to interrupt a huge parade tomorrow to disrupt a huge armed forces parade.

Rifles and Grenades
Security forces found an arms cache nine miles southeast of Saigon yesterday. It contained 15 Soviet-made rifles, 20 hand grenades, a mine and 1,500 rounds of ammunition.

City officials said the Communists planned to infiltrate four bomb squad battalions into Saigon to disrupt the parade. Such battalions could number from 20 to 300 men, military sources said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the bodies of 96 Communist troops were spotted around Ba Ho Mountain, 12 miles northeast of the South, where government forces threw back a Communist attack yesterday.

Military sources said a U.S. UH-1 Huey helicopter was forced down by ground fire six miles east of Saigon Wednesday night. One GI was killed and another wounded.

Communiqué from Phnom Penh said Communist forces bombarded Cambodian Army posts on all sides of the capital early today. A Cambodian officer said U.S. jets had been called in to help in the battle against North Vietnamese in the marshlands east of the city.

50 More Die of Cholera
CALCUTTA, June 18 (Reuters).—At least 50 more East Pakistani refugees have died of cholera in the last 24 hours, West Bengal Health Minister Jaiul Abedin said here tonight.

Dr. Abedin said that 23,407 known cases of cholera since the beginning of the epidemic in West Bengal, 3,508 people have died.

During his three-day visit, Prince Sadruddin met with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, Rehabilitation Minister R. K. Khosla and other senior officials. He also inspected some of the refugee camps in West Bengal.

Prince Sadruddin said he will ask United Nations agencies to step up aid for the refugees, now approaching the six million mark.

PTI reported from the border that Pakistani Army troops shelled the Indian border outpost of Phulbari, 90 miles north of Calcutta.

It said three Indian villagers and a refugee from East Pakistan were wounded in the shelling.

The Indian Border Security Force returned the fire, which continued for 20 minutes. No one from the Indian side was injured, PTI said.

2 GIs in Berlin Return to Face Desertion Charge

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—Two black soldiers returned to U.S. Army control in West Berlin today and an attorney representing them said they would claim undue harassment and racial discrimination when any legal proceedings on desertion were held.

The Army confirmed that Sgt. Ronald L. Bolden, 23, of Montgomery, Ala., and Spec. 4 G. Samuel Robertson Jr., 22, Baltimore, surrendered to a gate guard at U.S. Army headquarters. A spokesman said that Sgt. Bolden went absent without leave last Dec. 13 and Spec. Robertson on Jan. 5 and that each was subsequently put into deserter status.

The attorney identified himself as Stanley Faulkner of New York City. As the soldiers surrendered, Mr. Faulkner said, the pair unfurled a sign reading, "Stop the war in Vietnam and end racism."

Washington Post's Story

Pentagon Report Said to Deny U.S.-Diem Bid to Bar Election

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP).—The Washington Post said today that a Defense Department study asserts there was no conviction in 1955 between the United States and the Saigon regime to prevent elections throughout North and South Vietnam as agreed to by the Geneva Conference.

need of preventing a Communist takeover in any of the Indochinese regions said that the United States would need seven divisions plus air and naval support to win a ground war in Indochina.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, then President, and his secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, feared that such elections might lead to a coalition government and eventual Communist takeover, but it was South Vietnam President Ngo Dinh Diem who was responsible for the elections not being held, according to the Pentagon report's description in The Post.

At the height of U.S. involvement in April of 1968, there were nine American divisions and a total troop level of 548,000 men.

The story, written by Chalmers M. Roberts and appearing in The Post's later Friday editions, was described as based on "sections of the Pentagon study on the origins of the Vietnam war, made available to The Washington Post."

As outlined by The Post, the Defense Department study indicates a reluctance on the part of Eisenhower and particularly Dulles to take any step that they thought could lead to Communist domination.

The Post quoted from a July, 1964, telegram reportedly sent by Dulles to various American diplomats, as illustration of his attitude:

Sen. McGovern, the only announced presidential candidate, won on "15 1/2 percent of the population is made up of women, we can do better than that male Supreme Court and male cabinet, and an all Security Council."

MIT Says Ellsberg Reports By Telephone That He's Well

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 18 (AP)—The Massachusetts Institute of Technology heard today from Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, the former Pentagon aide alleged to have given classified documents of the Vietnam war to The New York Times.

not reveal the name of the employee who received the call. He identified him only as a clerical worker, who was formerly employed at the Center for International Studies at MIT, where Dr. Ellsberg is a senior research associate.

Mr. Byers said Dr. Ellsberg did not discuss whether or not he gave the documents to The Times. Dr. Ellsberg was named as the leak by a former Times reporter Sidney Zion in a radio interview.

Mr. Byers said Dr. Ellsberg told the employee to take the message to Dr. Everett F. Hagen, head of the center, saying that he and his wife were well, in good health, and there was no need for concern over them.

But it did make these points:

It was Diem, later assassinated, who was responsible almost alone for heading off the national elections, called for by the 1954 Geneva Conference, by refusing to deal with the Communists in the North.

Liebermann Will Direct Paris Opera Solti Is Appointed Musical Counselor

By Andreas Freund

PARIS, June 18 (NYT)—Rolf Liebermann of the Hamburg State Opera and the French government have reached agreement on the terms under which the famous composer-manager will head the Paris Opera as of 1973.

News to that effect made the front page of the newspaper Le Monde this afternoon. Mr. Liebermann, 62, upon his own request will be flanked by a musical counselor, Georg Solti, 58.

Mr. Solti will discharge this function concurrently with that of chief conductor of the Opéra de Paris, which he will take over next year after his present contract expires with the Royal Opera in London.

Administratively, the Paris Opera is linked with the smaller Opéra-Comique nearby in downtown Paris. Both houses come under the responsibility of the Culture Ministry.

BOOKS

CRIMINALS AT LARGE Reviewed by Newgate Callendar. JOHN CREASEY, who produces a book a week (or is it a day?) is said to have over 500 to his credit. One can see how his writing, rapid and perfunctory, is virtually devoid of grace or character. It is as though he dictates four or five books simultaneously, using much the same kind of characters, and much the same kind of prose to describe them. There is, of course, a professional finish to his work. Often the plotting is ingenious, but his mysteries are ruined by the flat, stereotyped writing.

Mr. Callendar wrote this review for The New York Times. The New York Times Best Seller list. This Week: 1 Passions of the Mind, 2 GB VII, 3 The Underground Man, 4 The Ball Jar, 5 The Throne of Saturn, 6 The Antagonist, 7 Birds of America, 8 Love in the Time of Cholera, 9 Summer of '42, 10 Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee, 11 The Grapes of Wrath, 12 The Greening of America, 13 The Female Eunuch, 14 The Grandees, 15 The Europeans, 16 The American Discovery of America, 17 The American, 18 The American, 19 The American, 20 The American.

Art Buchwald
$200 Understanding

WASHINGTON—The $200 student round-trip air fare to Europe has caused a sensation in travel circles. What started out as a very gloomy time for the airlines may turn out to be the most exciting summer the aviation business has had in years.

are going abroad. If we can't make a profit on volume, we have to make it on a high markup. "You know very well why we can't go abroad," a father said. "How can we take a vacation and leave our teenagers at home? We can't even go away for a weekend without the roof falling in."

It opened with some rancor. A parent said, "The airlines are taking advantage of a hopeless situation. They know they have us in a bind. We can't afford to spend $450 to send our kids to Europe and at the same time if we keep them at home this summer we'll all go nuts."

Italian Film Makers Ask Venice Boycott
ROME, June 18 (UPI)—A committee of Italian film directors, actors and scriptwriters today asked foreign movie makers to boycott this year's Venice Film Festival to protest its management.

Boomerangs on Beaches
PARIS, June 18 (AP)—Children on French beaches in July and August are to get 300,000 free boomerangs in an official Australian publicity program aimed at attracting French immigrants.

LANA TURNER
50 Movies Later

Beverly Hills, Calif., (WP)—This setting is more Dorothy Lamour than Lana Turner, all palm trees and wicker chairs and Oriental waters. It is a restaurant called the Luna, a popular hangout for the wealthy Beverly Hills set—owned, it turned out, by Steve Crane, an ex-husband of Miss Turner, and managed by his daughter Cheryl.

revealing that tough, earthy side, adds: "I still will not do crap." She leaves the impression that she is keenly, shrewdly aware of her limitations. "I was offered 'Applause,' to replace Lauren Bacall. I politely turned it down. I am not Miss Bacall. She created the role. She's a very strong actress. It was Miss Bacall's baby. Lauren Bacall and Lana Turner are two different types."

PEOPLE: Grandpa Winston Would've Approved

Her family may think she's "a bit potty," but Arabella Churchill feels that Sir Winston would have dug her hippie-like life. "My grandfather always approved of people doing their own thing, and that's what I'm doing and I'm very happy doing it," Miss Churchill, 31, told a BBC interviewer Thursday night. The daughter of the late Randolph Churchill and granddaughter of the great prime minister was being questioned about a week-long pop-and-mysticism festival she and thousands of other youths will attend starting this weekend at Glastonbury Tor, a hill in Somerset...
